DELAYING THE CONFIRMATION OF MEM-BERS OF THE MONETARY CONFERENCE.

PERSONAL ILL-FEELING ON THE PART OF THE COLORADO SENATORS-CHARACTERISTICS OF

EX-SENATOR HILL, EX-CONGRESS-MAN RUSSELL AND JUDGE

LAMBERT TREE

Washington, Jan. 22.-The confirmation of the members of the Monetary Conference is delayed through the personal enmity of Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, who is directing his energies to secure the rejection of ex-Senator Hill, of Colorado, who was appointed on the conference as a representative of the silver people. This conference was planned for the purpose of seeing what could he done in the way of adopting a favorable general standard for silver in the United States and the South American countries. It was a part of the general reciprocity trade plan. The silver people asked to have a representative upon the confer-The President selected Mr. Hill on account of his high reputation as a man and his acquirements as a scholar. No better representative of the silver people could have been found. In the Senate there is an unwritten rule called Senatorial If the two Senators from a State object to an appointment made from their State, then Senatorial courtesy requires that the nomination shall be hung up indefinitely, and perchance defeated, without any reason beyond the fact that the two Senators object. There is also another rule of Senatorial courtesy. This requires the confirmation of an ex-Senator the moment his name is presented to the Senate, and without referring it to a committee. The two Senators from Colorado have broken this rule abruptly in objecting to the confirmation of Mr. Hill.

Executive sessions shut out the public from the Senatorial discussions of the merits and demerits of the candidates. The objection made by the two Colorado Senators to Mr. Hill can be nothing more than what is based upon their dislike. Mr. Hill was once a strong candidate against Mr. Teller for the Senate. In that campaign, which was an exciting one, much teeling was stirred up between the two men. Mr. Hill is a gallant fighter and strikes out straight from the shorlder. He is the proprietor of one of the Denver papers and through this paper has been able to publish from time to time sharp criticisms upon the public career of Senator Teller and later of Senator Wolcott. Mr. Hill's newspaper has severely arraigned the two Colorado Senators for their desertion of their party on the Election bill. So to secure the rejection of Senator Hill, the two Colorado Senators would undoubtedly go to their former Democratic allies in the Senate to muster up sufficient If he is rejected it will not be on account of a single charge made against his character, but simply to gratify the personal feelings of the two Senators in question. Senator Teller is not as active in his opposition as Senator Wolcott. He supports what Mr. Wolcott is willing to Ex-Senator Hill is a man about fifty years of age. He is slightly above medium height, with a well-rounded figure. His round head is now quite bald. The semi-circle of hair left is light-brown, now beginning to be tinged with gray. Als forehead is broad, his eyes are blue, his nose is straight, his round face is high in color. A drooping brownish mustache shades his mouth. He is Eastern born and bred. The first important chapter in his life is that of a university professor. When he went West his scientific acquirements soon made him a great mining expert. He acquired wealth and became one of the leading figures of his State. He has a high character, great knowledge of finance, and such an undoubted place as a scholar that it is hard to believe the Senate of the United States could have refused him the conress of a prompt confirmation as an ex-Senator. This case i worth dwelling upon from its exceptional conditions. If such a nomination can be rejected to satisfy merely personal feelings, the Senate must surely lose character in public esteem.

The other two members of the conference are ex-Congressman Russell, from Massachusetts, and Judge Lambert Tree, of Chicago, These two centlemen will be confirmed without objection because they have apparently no personal ene Mr. Russell is a wealthy mies in the Senate. man, who has served several terms in Congress. He is a man of powerful figure, with silver-gray hair brushed straight back from a high, sloping forehead, with an angular-featured, fresh-colored fane, set off by a long beard which descends to his breast; his eyes are blue and his nose He has courtly manners, and is fond of entertaining and being entertained. He is a scholarly man, a correct and easy writer, with a temperament which will make him a painstaking investigator.

The Democratic member of the conference, Judge Lambert Tree, has much more of the temperament of the judge than of a partisan in his nature His career as a diplomat, as Minister to Belgium and afterward to St. Petersburg, was a creditable one. Judge Tree has lived many years in Europe. He retired from the Beach in Chicago some years ago, on account of ill-health. He was absent in Europe for several years. He returned home to find himself nominated as a candidate for Congress from his Chicago district. He took no active part in the campaign, as the contentions of local politics were anything but agreeable to him. The great wealth of Judge Tree has enabled him to devote his leisure to the collection of rare curiosities and the pursuits of studies congenial to his refined temperament. In Brussels he had a large house filled with treasures which he had found in various nooks and corners of Europe. He is above is about fifty-five years of age.

the medium height with a spare figure. His face is fresh-colored and smooth-shaven, with the exception of a brown mustache, which was just beginning to show a line of gray when I saw him in Paris two years ago. His hair is brown and inclined to curl. His ferehead is broad, his eyes are blue and his nose is straight. His voice is deep and low-toned. He has a deliberate drawl as he talks. It would be hard to excite him or to make him lose the judicial view of things. In Belgium he was a great friend of the King. No other American Minister was ever more entertained by the Belgian Monarch than Judge Tree. The latter speaks French easily and correctly. He and Minister McLane at Paris were the only two American representatives in the diplomatic service under the Cleveland Administration who could carry on a conversation in the diplomatic language of the courts. It was one of the original plans of Wilbur F Storey, the former Editor of "The Chicago Times," that Judge Tree should succeed to the proprietor ship and political power of that newspaper. This was an arrangement made by him when he was in full health and mental vigor. The Judge was then confidential legal adviser of the great Chicago editor, but as the latter became an invalid and the centre of numberless petty intrigues to control his property, the influence of Judge Tree was lessened, and so the plan came to nothing, because the Judge never could have stooped to take part in the petty contests for the control of what was at one time one of the most desirable newspaper T. THE OLD GUARD BALL.

A BRILLIANT RECEPTION AND DANCE.

CROWDS THRONG THE METROPOLITAN OPERA

HOUSE. The reception and ball of the Old Guard at the Metropolitan Opera House last night was a brilliant success. That sentence could be kept standing in type from year to year and be used with veracity dways in reporting these annual affairs of the Old ever, to say that the ball last night was even more cilliant than those of former years is to pay no more than a just tribute to the occasion without detracting from the glory of past social achievements.

The Metropolitan Opera House has not often held a gayer throng than was there last night, or one comed of a greater number of the looking men and cantiful women. The uniforms, gold lace and dec rations of many of the men, the gleaming necks and arms of the women, the flashing of jewels in the electric lights, the strains of delightful music and the odors of flowers-all these are enjoyed at every old Guard Ball, but never with a nearer approach to the fullest capacity for appreciation than last night-

When the curtain went up at 10:30 it showed the rear of the stage represented as a large tent, before which stood the officers of the Old Guard and their guests in uniform. A dewere dismissed, and the ball was opened by Gilmore hand playing "The Star Spangled Banner." MES, LEASE'S CHOICE FOR SENATOR.

Topela, Kan., Jan. 22.-Mrs. M. E. Lease, who tumped the State during the last election in opposition to Mr. Ingalls, and who is acknowledged to have ontribut d largely to the Alliance victory, is in the ferring to her preference among the Alliance candi dates: "I am for Harris, of Leavenworth. The fact that he is a Confederate will not hurt him with the Upion soldlers in the Alliance. It is a part of o Alliance faith to unite the South and the Wests and if Alliance faith to unite the South and the Wesh and if we can elect a Confederate from Kansas we have made a long stride in that direction."

This week's issues are the last of "The Non-Conformist" and "The Alliance Advocate," the two most influential of the Farmers' Alliance newspapers. They contain bitter attacks upon President McGrath, of the State Alliance. The warfare of these papers upon Mr. Meterath, it is generally believed, will either force his regirement or disrupt the Alliance.

THE ELECTION CONTEST IN NEBRASKA. Lincoln, Nab., Jan. 22.—The joint convention of the Legislature to hear the election contest case met this morning, but at once took a recess until 2 p. m., where the decision of the Supreme Court on the legality of the proceedings was formally delivered. The court holds that the signatures of the Governor and Lieutenat Governor to the concurrent resolution are necessary ary to make the acts of the joint convention valid.
This will require the passage of a new concurrent resoution, which will delay the hearing of the contest at

THE SOUTH DAKOTA SENATORSHIP. Pierre, S. D., Jan. 22.-The third and fourth ballots or senator were taken to-day. Moody lost one on the fourth ballot, Representative Way, of Fall River County, leaving him. Two Republicans paired with Independents. The last ballot stood as follows: Moody 70: Tripp, 24: Harden, 20: Wardail, 10: Crose, 11: Cosand, 7: State Senator Kyle, 7: the remaining scattering. Six Republicans still refuse to vote for The situation is critical for him. Pickler, Mellville, Preston and Gifford all have Repub lican following and may enter the contest to morrow An effort will be made at the next Republican cancu induce Moody to withdraw and let other candidates enter without cancusing. In this case Mellette seems a the lead. The Fusionists are still as far apart as in the lead. The Fusionists are still as far apart as ever on the Senatorial candidate. The Independents are bandy cut up. The Democrats are firm for Tripp. A break is expected to morrow. Enough opposition will go to the Republicans to elect if they all unite, but it looks doubtful for the present.

BUSINESS IN THE MINNESOTA HOUSE. St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.-In the House this morning Mr. Kendall offered a joint resolution memorializing Congress in favor of the construction of a canal in New York at Niagara Falls, the passage of the Payne bill for that purpose being urged in the interests of the commercial and agricultural interests of the West and the military and industrial interests of the whole pointment of a committee of five for the investigation of cost of watered stock of railroads.

Mr. Currier's resolution in favor of the selection of President and Vice President by a voic of the people was then taken up and after a brief discussion was, under the previous question, adopted—yeas 58, nays 40. It was afterward reconsidered and referred to the Committee of the Whole.

FARMERS AND REPUBLICANS VOTE TOGETHER. Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.-The two houses of the Legislature again met in joint assembly to-day to ballot for United States Senator. The fourth ballot was taken, which resulted as follows: Palmer, 101; Oglesby, 100; Streeter, 3. Mr. Tanbeneck, F. M. B. A. member, then moved an adjournment, which was carried by the combined vote of the Republicans and Farmers' Alliance men, the Democrats voting solidly against the motion.

THE RIVAL HOUSES IN MONTANA. Helena, Mont., Jan. 22 .- Both parties to the Legislative deadlock have been cancusing all day. Democrats first made a proposition that the two houses come together, with twenty-eight Republicans and twenty-seven Democrats, the latter to have the organization of the House. The Republicans then made a counter proposition, accepting the Democratio terms of twenty-eight Republicans to twenty-seven Democrats, giving the latter the speakership, but asking for a division of other offices, and that the pro-This the Democrats refused. Notwithstanding the lack of agreement to date, there is now no doubt but that the two houses will effect a compromise not later than Monday. The Republican House has adjourned till saturday.
